

Your INL Update — Week of Feb. 16, 2009

This is Misty Benjamin with your INL Update...

High school students in northern Idaho will put their knowledge to the test. INL Scholastic Tournament is traveling to three university campuses in order to qualify Idaho's top students for the Department of Energy's National Science Bowl. This week, teens will be competing on the University of Idaho campus.

Idaho universities, legislators and others will take part in the dedication for the Center for Advanced Energy Studies facility on Friday. Idaho's governor, C.L. "Butch" Otter, U.S. Senators Mike Crapo and James Risch and Representatives Mike Simpson and Walt Minnick will join senior management from the DOE Office of Nuclear Energy, presidents of the state's major research universities and senior leadership from Battelle.

INL will host tours and briefings for dedication participants that will include new information about research happening throughout the laboratory

You'll find more information on these stories at INL dot GOV.